A NEW YEAR'S GREETING

The following was given Dr. Cum ming, of the First Presbyterian church. Reading it as his desire for his congregation, he also wants to pass it on to all the people of Winchester:

And now comes "My New Year's Wish" to you: May the New Year bring to you blessing and prosperity -sunshine and cheer-peace and joy-a year in which no cloud shall dim the vision of the Christ, who giveth all that is good, so lovingly abundant! May you fill each day with kindness, be gentle in heart. sincere in purpose,-a real helper to all about you! May the Three Hundred and Sixty-six steps of Nineteen Hundred Twelve be a golden stairway, elading onward and onpward by the pathway of helpful. cheerful, service to fullness of joy and victory through Jesus Christ. BARBERTOWN IS A our Lord! May the Lord bless thee and keep thee!

"Another year is dawning! Dear Master, let it be. In working or in waiting. Another year with Thee!

"Another year is dawning! Dear Master, let it be, On carth, or else in Heaven, Another year with Thee!"

Tarrytown, N. Y .. Jan. 2 .- The new year has a cheerless outlook for John D. Rockefeller. Since he lost his job as President of the Standard Oil Company one misfortune after another has been dogging him around his Pocantico Hills estate.

First, he lost his lake; then the village of Tarrytown turned down his contract for oiling the roads: Aldermen.

Sunday the Y. M. C. A. called on him for $35,000 for its new building, but the greatest blow fell, when George Ferguson, the Rockefeller ice man, told him his lake was leaking, and ven if zero weather should come this winter the ice erop would be small and prices would have to advance pext summer.

Ferguson lives on the Rockefeller estate, but Rockefeller does not n.t control his business. Last sum-Los Angeles, Jan. 2 .- Ad Wol- mer Ferguson's lake started to steal away, and the Superintendent wrote Mr. Rockefeller, in Cleveland, that a new dam was needed. Mr. Rockefeller wired back: "Don't know what kind of a dam Fergusen wants, but do anything to stand in with the ice

FULL FLEDGED CITY

And Salaries of All of The City Officials Have Been Reduced by Old Board of Aldermen.

Akron, O., Jan. 2.-Barberton, a town of 12,000 population, founded in 1890 by Ohio C. Barbar the millionaire match king, has become a full-fledged city.

The change has resulted in many complications, certain legislation being held up because of the fact that it was impossible to complete the transactions before the chargovernment took place.

One of the last moves of the retiring Town Council was to reduce the salaries of the Mayor and practically every other official, and there appears to be doubt if a Service Director and a Safety Director can be procured for the figures fixed by the

NOTICE

To Tobacco Growers:

We advertised to begin our sales of loose leaf tobacco at Winchester Ky., on January 2, 1912, but decided it was to the best interest of the sellers of tobacco to postpone this sale until Tuesday, January 9, 1912.

Our reason for postponing the sale is the fact that three of the four companies into which the American Tobacco Company has been divided assured us that they had not had time to fully organize their force of buyers, on account of the American Tobacco Company having done business as formerly up to December 31,

We feel sure that we will have buyers next week with instructions to buy tobacco at the full market price. The growers should realize that we are starting our sales under very peculiar conditions such as have never existed before, and it will take a little time to get everything in shape for business. Our shipping facilities are as good as any in the Burley belt and if the growers will be patient we will promise that all will be done to secure for them the full market price for their tobacco.

Two members of our Board of Directors have been in touch with the head men of the tobacco business and we feel sure that we can promise our patrons that everything pos sible will be done to protect their in-

We have ample storage room and are in shape to receive all tobacco ready for delivery.

Attend the sale on January 9, 1912 and see a fully equipped house with an up-to-date looseleaf market.

Yours very truly, PLANTERS' LOOSE LEAF WARE-HOUSE COMPANY. By R. M. Scobee, Manager.

Elizabeth's Peril

A whoop of mingled rage, terror and pain penetrated to the upper re-

Elizabeth's mother, for whom sound, familiar though it was, has out of her bedroom and half way down the stairs to meet her waiting offspring. She sank down upon one of the steps and instantly a pair of frantic arms were locked about her knees and a Dutch cropped head and a huge pink hair ribbon were buried

Elizabeth's mother gathered into her protecting arms the head, the pink bows and as much as possible of the plump, pathetically heaving

"What's the matter with mother's baby?" she asked tenderly. "Wow, wow, wow!"

Elizabeth. Elizabeth's mother clasped her lit tle daughter closer to her. "Are you hurt, darling?" she queried, anxious-

"Wow, wow, wow!" The pink bows vibrated violently, but indefinitely. "Elizabeth, 'dear," said her mother trying to uncover the hidden face 'you must stop crying and tell me what's the matter. Are you hurt?" The head merely burrowed deepe into the friendly lap. "It's-it's my tooth," gasped Elizabeth, finally.

"Your tooth, sweetheart?" claimed her mother. "Does it ache? "No. I don't guess so." The answe came in a tone that was something between a bellow and a sniffle

"Then what's the matter?" Eliza beth's mother was growing slightly peevish under the strain. "Elizabeth you've got to stop howling and tel me." She raised the tear-stained face and held it firmly between her two hands.

"Now, tell me," she said, authori tatively. "If your tooth doesn't ache what are you shricking about?" There was a tresh outburst of tears but with the flood came the words "It's-oh, it's coming out!" Elizabeth's mother gave a little sigl of relief. She kissed the top of the anguished head. "That's nothing to cry about, precious," she said, com fortingly. "You'll soon have a nic new one in its place."

"Oh, I don't mind the tooth," wail ed Elizabeth, "but Tom said-oh dear! Oh, dear me! We was all ou playin'-

"We were out playing," correcte Elizabeth's mother, gently. "Yessum. We was all out playing and Tom he come along-"

"Tom came along, baby," Elizabeth mother said, patiently. "Yessum. And Tom he come alor and he said-" The remainder of the story was lost in another whoop o

Elizabeth's mother rose and led her small daughter to the bathroom and bathed her face thoroughly. After that she took the very woe begone infant into the mother's own room and sat down in the big rocking chair with Elizabeth in her lap and rocked her until the sobs had ceased When the much-to-be-desired resul had been gained she went to he: dresser and took out a paper bag of soft molasses candy. Elizabeth's eyes glistened. "Now," said Elizabeth's mother, "we are going to have a perfectly beautiful treat, just us two. Fairly radiating joy, Elizabeth bur ied her more or less uncertain little tooth in the piece of candy. Then she removed the candy hastily, gave it one look and immediately set up a shriek that made the plaster nearly start from the walls.

"Wow, wow, wow!" She took up the cry where she had dropped it a short time before. "Wow, wow, wow! My tooth's gone, and Tom said-" The shriek ceased as suddenly as it had begun. Two large tear drops were arrested midway down her fat cheeks and a smile, beginning in a very small way, grew and grew until it threatened to bisect her face. She ran to the mirror and regarded intently the gap left by the departed tooth.

"Why, mother-Tom thaid, he thaid that when my tooth came out-he thaid that he knew a girl who looked just like me, with little poppy eyes and pink hair ribbonth, and when her tooth came-that when my tooth came out-that when her tooth wath gone-that I wouldn't know how to do anything but just whithle! He thaid that when that girl's tooth that looked like me wath gone she couldn't ever talk again. And, mother, it wathn't tho! It kind o' hitheth when I do it, but I can talk! I can talk jutht ath much ath ever!"

Elizabeth's mother fled hastily into the next room and buried her head in a thick bath robe which was hanging in the corner of the closet.

'The eternal feminine!" she chok "How her father would enjoy it if I should tell him! But I don't believe I'll tell him. I think this is a case in which only a mother can thoroughly sympathize."

The Cause. "How do you account for those half dozen houses of yours in the block going off so soon?"

"Because in them I had the six best cellars."
